FROM THE EDITOR

Happy New Year To You All

Welcome to the January issue of the Litter Box.

New Year - New look. I decided to clean it up a bit and remove the little boxes. I hope it looks better.

I am hoping to be able to report on some events this year. We have a tentative event in Nov at the Hilton Head Island car club showcase. I will keep you updated on that. As for club events the board are going to meet soon and discuss the possibility of these. With vaccinations and masking its possible later in the year it will be safe enough. Of course the health of the club members is paramount.

Content. Looking for articles. Please send anything and everything to me. News, Fun Facts, images, announcements. I want to keep the magazine community driven so your voice is needed.

From The President ERIC DUNN

Hello and Happy 2021. A lot of us might be glad to put 2020 in our rearview mirror and burn some rubber forward to the New Year. Let us all hope the road ahead is less bumpy.

Over the holiday, a neighbor of mine told me he saved over 15% on his car insurance by switching. I asked if he had switched to GEICO; he said, "No. I switched into reverse and left the scene of the accident. " It is noted that the officers of our Jaguar Club never put things into reverse , or even neutral last year, but continued to keep things interesting and entertaining through this catasterous COVID continuum. Let us congratulate and thank them .

Club officers will be meeting this month to plan out events for the coming year. As you know the present circumstances will limit activities; however, there will be every effort to maintain comradery and interaction, be it by lap top or mask top. The Jaguar Clubs of North America (JCNA) is scheduled to have the national Annual General Meeting in Columbia, South Carolina March 25-28, 2021. The face to face Meeting was cancelled last year due to the COVID , so it is not impossible it may be rescheduled again. Should know soon.

We must take time to remember those wonderful Club members we just recently lost in the last few weeks----Jerry Sloane, Paula Rogenes, and Rosemary LaBarre. We shall miss them all.

Also , I want to say that I am honored to serve as Club President for 2021 and hope I can do justice to those before.

Happy roads. Drive safe.

1963 FHC – Bonnet Wrinkles and Bumps

By Harvey Ferris

An interesting thing happened while I was block sanding my bonnet center section. I found a wrinkle and a bump. The wrinkle was next to the passenger side headlight opening. The bump was next to the driver side headlight opening but closer to the power bulge. Both were subtle but block sanding reveals this sort of thing, both by observing the sanding pattern of the guide coat and just by sense of feel with your hand. A little research determined that other restorers have experienced similar problems. Since my bonnet center section is new, I am sure these developed recently. I would note that the match of the flanges of the bonnet center section to the flanges of the wing panels required some force, using clamps, to get the flanges to align. I suspect the forces placed into the panel found an outlet at an adjacent weaker point. As my friend Rick observed “the bonnet center section is like a floppy taco”.

Once I released the bonnet center section from the wings, I was able to hammer and dolly both issues away. But I was worried that they might come back. I decided to add some stiffness to the metal. The way I went about this is as follows. I purchased a can of Evercoat body filler that is mixed with short Kevlar fibers. Not many years ago, it would have been plain spunglass fibers but Kevlar is the current fiber of choice.

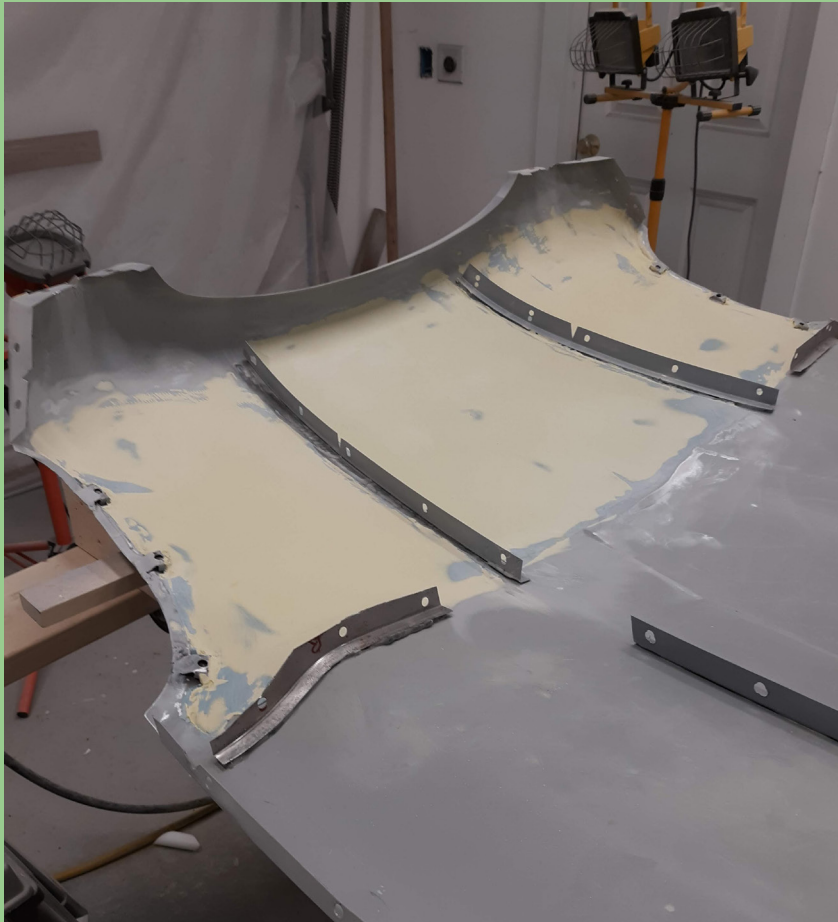

I applied two thin coats to the underside of the bonnet. I chose to start at a point just forward of the radiator rock screen and brought the material back to the bonnet opening. Per the directions for the product, I top coated it with a skim of regular filler. The Kevlar reinforced product is green, as shown in the following photo. Also notice that I installed the headlight chromes to hold the edge of the headlight opening in the required position. I had previously fit these so I felt confident that they would hold the required profile.

Regular filler applied on top

Once feather edge sanded along the edges and painted, the additional material will be very hard to notice. More importantly, I have vastly increased the section thickness and thus the bending strength of the metal in this area. Of course, there is a chance that I'll just push the problem up into the unreinforced area. We'll see but I am confident that the flanged edge and the more dramatic stiffening effect of the power bulge in the remaining area will serve to hold things in check.
